Pastor's Pen

Dear Friends and fellow believers in Jesus,

As I write these words, I'm looking at my calendar and planning ahead for the New Year. This is an activity that is participated in by most people every time we get to the after Christmas time before the New Year's observance.

I've chosen the following words to guide my thoughts: Romans 5:2-5: (ESV)

<sup>2</sup>Through him we have also obtained access by faith into this grace in which we stand, and we rejoice in hope of the glory of God. <sup>3</sup>Not only that, but we rejoice in our sufferings, knowing that suffering produces endurance, <sup>4</sup>and endurance produces character, and character produces hope, <sup>5</sup>and hope does not put us to shame, because God's love has been poured into our hearts through the Holy Spirit who has been given to us.

There are two words here that draw our attention, they are: "Produce" and "Hope." This reference is also optimistic.

Hope is an optimistic attitude of mind that is based on an expectation of positive outcomes related to events and circumstances in one's life or the world at large.

Optimistic people see the best in the world. (Optimistic ideas have been around for a while — Voltaire's "Candide" (1759) mocked them thoroughly. Here's an optimistic quote from Ralph Waldo Emerson: "Write it on your heart that every day is the best day in the year.")

Sometimes, however, it seems impossible to have or to maintain a positive and/or optimistic attitude or point of view.

I have come to know several individuals who are the very opposite. Instead of looking forward with eager anticipation, they live in the darkness of fear and trepidation. Whenever the slightest variation in their lives appears they become up-set, agitated, their personalities change, and they lash out against others and with much "hand wringing" while negatively influencing others. Baby Boomers and "millennials" fall into these cohorts. (Pew Research Center reports and data on the Millennial generation, and describes "millennials" as those born after 1980 and the first generation to come of age in the new millennium.)

The number of Millennials is greater than Boomers and the numbers in the Greatest Generation. Asking specific questions about religion, God and heaven when speaking to a Millennial more often gets a response of uncertainty if not hopeless pessimism. The reason for this is attributed to the lack of training in higher and more lofty matters of life while placing emphasis on the matters of self, stuff and cynicism. This era of training should be laid at the feet of the “Boomers” and their wholesale pursuit of consumer satisfaction. This explains why “grandmothers” are the better ones to ask about removing stains with apple cider vinegar (ACV). Boomers would just throw their soiled things away while “older” generations would clean them up with ACV. If you’re really interested here’s something you can read:

<http://www.apartmenttherapy.com/13-ways-to-clean-your-whole-home-with-apple-cider-vinegar-235579>

We gain further insight then when we see that so many of our 3, 4 & 5 year old children have not been baptized. They are not because their parents have been taught to leave them on their own. 'When they get older they will decide.' They are not taught to pray, they do not understand death and dying while they see it all around them, and their hearts and minds do not know about forgiving love, mercy, compassion, and human spirituality.

This is especially saddening when educators, doctors, and psychologists talk of the same ages as the most important for training in the basic concepts of self-worth, socialization, forgiveness and human spirituality.

"When something goes wrong during the formative years that has an effect on how the person grows and develops later during adolescence and adult life. Most time lines consider the first five years the formative years, and during this time social skills and basic motor functions are learned and practiced. Learning to walk, talk and use the bathroom are some key examples of these formative skills.

In addition, personality is greatly impacted by these years. Many basic likes and dislikes, such as arts and sports, have their beginnings in this period. Emotional development also starts in the formative years. It is important to focus on encouraging a child's intellectual and thinking abilities during these years, as it can have a significant impact on them later in life. It is difficult to make up for a lack of this encouragement at an older age because by the end of the formative years so many basic building blocks are set in stone. For example, a child who does not learn to speak early enough will have difficulty learning later on."

(Please note that school districts implementing 4K programs seek to perpetuate the humanistic world view.)

The Bible is full of directions to train up children. The last time I counted there were 31 easily identified passages. Proverbs 22:6 is readily understood: "Train up a child in the way he should go; even when he is old he will not depart from it."

Children of all generations are to be given hope. That hope is based on the righteousness of Christ. We teach the children at home, in our preschool, Sunday School, and Confirmation Classes to have an optimistic perspective based on the absolute truth of God as set forth in the Scriptures.

May we do all that we can to teach by word and example the message of the Gospel!

Our December activity of making Christmas crafts was cancelled due to inclement weather: snow, sub-zero temperature, and severe wind chill.

Stay tuned for information on our January activity as it's still in planning phase. If you have any questions about the K.I.C.K. program please speak with Christina Dobberstein.

Thank you to all that have helped with K.I.C.K.

We hope that everyone has a Happy New Year!

Joyful Noise Notes

Happy New Year from the preschool! We worked hard in December to learn our recitation and songs for our Christmas service on December 18. We were excited to share the wonderful message with family and friends that Jesus is the best Christmas gift.

Before taking our Christmas vacation, we learned our twelfth letter of the alphabet, the letter L. We now have been introduced to the letters A-L. When we return on January 4, we will be introduced to the wise men, letters M and N, and a winter theme. There will be no school on the 16 and 23.

Messy Monday will be on January 9.

Registration for the next school year begins this month. Tell your friends and neighbors about our wonderful program.

A Biblical Worldview by John Beck

The following article appeared in The Lutheran Science Institute Journal.

Natural Selection by Mark Bergemann, LSI
Journal, 2016

The evolution story is a mixture of reality and fabrication. Natural selection is a great example of this truth.

Reality: Natural selection produces new species of plants and animals.

Fabrication: The claim that natural selection produces new kinds of plants and animals.

There are many species in most Biblical kinds. Every kind of plant and animal which exists today, or which has gone extinct, was created by God thousands of years ago during the six days of creation. No new kinds ever develop. New species develop all the time, but always within their own kind. Birds did not descend from dinosaurs, they descended from birds. People did not descend from apelike creatures, they descended from people.
